CONTACTEES: A HISTORY OF ALIEN-HUMAN INTERACTION

By: Nick Redfern

Contactees is a study of the claims of people who say they have met with aliens from other worlds. The Contactees first surfaced in the early 1950s, and maintained that they had spoken with very human-looking aliens who were concerned by our war-like ways, and the fact that we had recently developed the atom bomb. Since then, literally hundreds of people across the world have claimed contact with these particular aliens; who have become known as the "Space-Brothers." The book studies and dissects the major cases and claims, and offers theories concerning the nature of the alleged alien experiences.
