

An Enlightened Philosophy: Can An Atheist Believe Anything?

By GEOFF CROCKER

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Faith and Atheism – a possible synthesis ?

The main synthesis

The detailed argument

Humanity today

Why people don't believe

Creation, complexity, Darwin and Dawkins

Contemporary philosophers

The history of religion

Technology is god ?

European intellectual cynicism, American believerism and Asian religion

A Holistic History of Humanity

Enlightened humanity

Cogito Ergo Sum

Choice, Cause and Chance

Determination of outcomes

Are we alone? Does cosmology suggest theism?

Metaphysics – from Aristotle to Hegel

Current thinking – the paradigm of postmodern society

The church in modernity

Towards a synthesis – some connections

The physical connection

The soul connection

The divine connection

The myth connection

A proposed synthesis

Andre Comte-Sponville

A Short Treatise on the Great Virtues

Justice

Love

Market

Institutions

The role of the state

Myth – and resurrection

Myth - the trinity

Myth - sibling rivalry

Fear

The blessed life

Hosting the synthesis

Bibliography