

THE NEW PLANETARY REALITY

By Imre Vallyon

Excerpt: 600 Words

Since the very beginning of our creation, the human heart has always been searching for Immortality because within every one of us there is a sensation that there is something else we should be doing, or somewhere else we should be—another place, another condition, another realm of existence or another state of mind, heart or soul. So it is the fundamental nature of every human being, and of Humanity itself, to search for Immortality. It is the feeling that no matter what you have, it is never enough; no matter what you achieve, it is never enough; no matter how famous you become, it is never enough. The human heart is always unsatisfied. No matter how far we advance in technology, science, knowledge, power, personal attainment, it is never enough and it never will be enough.

Every single human being is a Living Soul and that Living Soul has a personality. Now that personality is “you” reading this paragraph at the moment. So “you” are two beings: you are a wonderful Living Soul, full of Light, blazing with glory, intelligence and understanding; and a personality enclosed in limited bodies in space and time. You as the Living Soul are always beautiful, always glorious, always wonderful, always in a state of harmony and love, and you as this personality are always having problems from the time you are born to the time you die, including the endless problems you have with other personalities.

As you can see, within your reality there is a big discrepancy or duality. There is the personality, which is changeable and always will be changeable; and there is the individual reality, your Soul, the real you, which is unchangeable, indestructible and eternal. So you as a Soul cannot die or be born and nothing can change you, by your very nature, because you are made of imperishable Light. On the other hand, your personality is a temporary manifestation. It’s as if your eternal Soul decided to go on a temporary holiday—to this planet of all places!—and you are lucky if you reach the age of 100. But what is 100 years to the life of the immortal Soul? Nothing.

You need to understand this to see why you have been going wrong—why everybody has been going wrong—for millions of years. What people have always been doing, and what they are still doing, is focusing on the personality, trying to make that existence immortal. They believe that the physical body will live forever, that in this physical world you can create a heaven world for yourself and for Mankind, a glorious society where everybody will be blissed out. Forget it. Thinking that we can create a perfect life and society in this world, in this limited condition of space and time, with limited forms of energy, matter and embodiment is a major fault in human thinking, because this particular condition is not meant for that.

The reason is that the same duality existing inside you exists also in the Cosmos. There is a bright Reality that is eternal, always stable, perfect and ideal, and there is this reality, this world that is always restless and is not (and never can be) perfect and ideal. You can of course try to improve it, but it will never reach the level of perfection of the Soul on the spiritual dimensions.

It is important to understand this because then you will understand the idea of seeking for Enlightenment, or Immortality: where it comes from, why it is and how to actually achieve it in this lifetime.
