

THOUSANDS WITNESS POLTERGEIST

Eyewitness Accounts and Chilling Recordings

"As an eyewitness to the Lindley Street case, I am impressed by the author's painstaking research and his determination to hunt down the facts. Hall is one of the few to get it right!"

—PAUL F. ENO, cohost of CBS "Behind the Paranormal"

San Francisco, CA (August 1, 2014) — A spine-tingling page-turner, The World's Most Haunted House: The True Story of the Bridgeport Poltergeist on Lindley Street was written by a Bridgeport native with a unique background. In 1974 when William J. Hall was a young boy, more than 2,000 residents in person and on TV witnessed the terrifying rampage of what was believed to be a poltergeist, from levitating furniture to floating refrigerators and physical attacks.

The Lindley Street haunting was the talk of the city and the state during all of the author's youth and it remained crystal-clear in his memory. He became a professional, performing magician and an expert in researching the unexplained, from folklore and urban legend to fortune telling, the pyramids, and other mysteries. His syndicated column "Magic and the Unknown" ran for many years in multiple newspapers in Connecticut.

For The World's Most Haunted House, he interviewed dozens of witnesses and the police officers and firefighters involved in the Lindley Street incident, revealing for the first time the details of what happened. Readers will:

- Relive the startling appearance of the poltergeist, the emotional response of the onlookers, and the unexplainable events that took place in the house
- Thrill to excerpts from actual interviews, police reports, and previously unpublished documents
- Access unreleased audio, poltergeist sounds, and an old radio broadcast.

Readers will find themselves returning to Lindley Street in 1974 to find out why this is the haunting that should have brought the paranormal into mainstream science.

After obtaining more evidence than has ever been discovered, finally, William J. Hall presents in riveting scenes what really happened on Lindley Street.

"The World's Most Haunted House is a thrilling and authentic account of one of the most terrifying and well-documented poltergeist hauntings of modern times. I found it to be fascinating and comprehensive—required reading for anyone with a serious interest in bizarre paranormal disturbances. But, read it with the lights on!"

— Dr. Andrew Nichols, American Institute of Parapsychology

About the Author: William J. Hall was born and raised in Bridgeport, Connecticut, where the events of The World's Most Haunted House took place. He watched and heard the news coverage of the Lindley Street haunting on TV when he was 10 years old.

After more than 25 years as a professional magician and a member of the Society of American Magicians Psychic Investigation Committee, Hall knows how to recognize trickery and how to create and recognize illusions, and he knows from personal experience that poltergeists exist.
