

A PHYSICIAN IS DELIVERED FROM DIRE ADDICTION AND NEAR-DEATH:

Dr. House's Incredible Journey Towards Building an Energy-Based Medical Practice

San Francisco, CA (May 15, 2015) — A prominent physician and acupuncturist, Dr. Richard House tells of his amazing life journey from addiction to the discovery of higher dimensions. His new book, Between Now and When: How My Death Made My Life Worth Living, traces his life from when he first experienced the oneness of existence at age seven. As a teen, he heard a mystical voice that foretold his death at age thirty-three, a prophecy that left him at death's door at exactly that age, when, after sinking into addiction, he nearly died of liver failure.

Dr. House's near-death experience propelled him into a fourth dimension of super-reality where his body was miraculously healed. He then embarked on a tour around the world, seeking redemption.

Between Now and When describes the truths and the wonders he encountered as his expanding consciousness revealed the metaphysical underpinnings of the visible world and the interdimensional matrix that gives rationality to earthly life. Ultimately, Dr. House met his life partner; and, they traveled and began their life together as he established his practice of energy-based medicine, a new paradigm that affords his many patients spiritual, emotional and physical well-being without the use of drugs.

The riveting life story is rich with Vedic and Sufi teachings as espoused by Meher Baba; the author adds to this wisdom, using easy-to-understand terminology. Readers of Between Now and When will:

- Take a metaphysical journey around the world
- Open their eyes to the energetic grid that organizes earthly life
- Begin to understand human suffering and why it is an important part of God's life on earth
- Open their hearts to the unlimited power of divine and human love
