How to Talk to an Alien

By Nancy du Tertre

In a world where presidents of great nations now actually entertain conversations about aliens, where television shows on the topic of UFOs abound, where support groups and psychologists dealing with strange experiences with alleged extraterrestrials and inter-dimensional beings have become almost commonplace, the real focus is now on how we should learn to interact effectively with aliens. Aliens have been a hush-hush taboo subject for a very long time. It is high time we begin to examine all aspects of aliens with a degree of seriousness that we have chosen to disregard in the past.

“How to Talk to an Alien” is a book that finally takes a serious look at the topic of alien communication. The author, Nancy du Tertre, calls this new field in ufology “Exolinguistics” or the study of extraplanetary language. She examines the ways in which our government and related branches have attempted to communicate with ETs in the past, mostly with little or no awareness on the part of the general public. She analyzes examples of alien speech from documented encounters with aliens from around the world. Nancy also examines written samples of alien writing and reveals what is, perhaps, the first attempt to create a kind of Rosetta Stone to understand written alien language.

Nancy discovers not only do aliens speak in several varieties of their native alien tongues, but many of them are extremely skilled in speaking human languages – including some of our most challenging and difficult languages like Finnish! Not all aliens seem to have these abilities, however, and some are stuck with sign language gestures like the ones encountered in Poland. Still other types of extraterrestrials communicate primarily through telepathic means like those encountered in South America. Since mental telepathy, ESP and psychic skills are innate, but not well-developed, in most human beings, telepathic alien conversations are often one-sided or extremely limited. Nancy cites a number of documented cases showing how telepathic communication with aliens actually works. She is particularly qualified to discuss these issues because not only is she a linguist (English, French, German, Thai), but she is also trained in the psychic arts. Nancy is a trained psychic detective, spiritual medium, medical intuitive, and remote viewer. Further, she has had multiple UFO sightings and unconventional types of communication with aliens.
