Story Angles

Headline: Area 51: The Ultimate Secret Base

Sub-Headline: Conspiracies in the Desert

In mid-1989, a Las Vegas-based scientist named Robert Lazar claimed that from late-1988 to early-1989, while working at a secret location in the Nevada desert famously known today as Area 51, he was allegedly shown a number of alien spacecraft that the U.S. Government had acquired. Lazar further maintained that while at Area 51 he read a variety of classified reports on UFOs that provided extensive background data on the alleged history of an alien presence on the Earth. Lazar said that the reports he read stated humankind is the product of sixty-five, ancient genetic “corrections” by alien visitors. Lazar also asserted that he personally worked on the propulsion-systems of a number of extraterrestrial spacecraft held at the base. Is Lazar’s story credible? Or was it created to hide and confuse the truth about the secret testing of highly-advanced terrestrial – rather than extraterrestrial – craft of a Star Wars-like nature? Whatever the truth, there can be no doubt that the legend of Area 51 and its involvement in secret UFO studies has become an integral part of history, popular-culture, and the dark realm of conspiracy and cover-up.

Headline: The Montauk Mystery

Sub-Headline: Time-Travel and Teleportation

Camp Hero – also known as the Montauk Air Force Station – can be found at the easterly end of Long Island, New York. And for years, this unique location has been the target of attention for numerous conspiracy theorists, who believe that a secret arm of the U.S. Government has been engaged in research at the base on such controversial issues as time-travel – borne out of the so-called, legendary Philadelphia Experiment of 1943, in which it is alleged the U.S. Navy transported one of its ships from the height of the Second World War to the present day. Mind-control experiments undertaken on military personnel and members of the general public; bizarre gene-splicing programs to create Frankenstein-like atrocities; and Top Secret weather-control experiments are just some of the controversies surrounding the mysteries of Montauk.

Headline: Bunkers of TerrorSub-Headline: Locations of the Undisclosed Kind

Most people will remember how, when the terror-attacks of September 11, 2001 began, then-Vice President Dick Cheney was famously evacuated to an “undisclosed-location.” What is less well known is that the U.S. Government has built, and continues to build, other secret bunkers designed to protect government officials not just faced with future 9-11-style events, but also dirty-bomb attacks, as well as outright nuclear-assaults by hostile nations. These deeply-buried Bunkers of Terror can be found all across the United States, and collectively represent a vast network designed to protect the higher echelons, while the remainder of the populace may be forced to confront, and deal with, the terrifying carnage above ground.
