Story Angles

Synchronicity: You have an amazing ability

Paragraph: You have an amazing ability. Synchronistic events, (SE) happen when your inner and outer worlds seem to mirror each other. Your thoughts and feelings, your memories and experiences, are reproduced in the events around you as coincidences. It's not just you with this ability, it's everyone. This is not some world of science fiction or fantasy, you are doing it at this very moment. This seemingly magical ability goes largely unnoticed, unexplained and misunderstood. This ability is real. It's not magic, but it is the core of most myths about magic. This book is about getting oriented to powers you already use. It will show you in terms of real science and psychology how you create the meaning of SE around you, and show you how to use amazing abilities you already have.

Creating reality: How you already shape the universe you live in Paragraph: You are performing miracles at this very moment. You live in an infinitely complex universe of patterns and events. You, with your cosmically complex brain, sift through billions of patterns happening around you each moment. Even before you become consciously aware of them, your mind sorts out those that have meaning, those that are irrelevant, and those you have the ability to alter. You decide what the universe means. More than that, you have the ability to actually change the patterns of events around you. This book will show you in understandable scientific terms how the miracle of your mind works. You will learn you have a seemingly magical ability to alter the structure of reality by creating synchronistic events. Science has caught up with magic. Come learn how you already shape the universe around you.

How can they think that? The way we create reality by what we look for Paragraph: Have you ever wondered how people with radically different views from your own can think that way? Shouldn't it be obvious to them how the world really works? There is a test of self-awareness called the "Mirror Test." It is used to determine if animals are truly conscious. Shown themselves in a mirror most creatures react as if another of their species has suddenly appeared, and proceed to socialize with their reflection accordingly. A few creatures; humans, elephants, dolphins, some birds, dogs and higher primates, recognize the image in the mirror as a reflection of themselves. Synchronistic events (SE) are coincidences that carry the reflections of our thoughts, emotions and opinions into the world around us. Most people see these reflections of their own thoughts and mistake them for confirmation of what they already think. The world changes according to what you think and which patterns you are looking for. This book will show how to create SE consciously and how you already change the reality around you. It does this by explaining in understandable scientific terms how your mind works, and showing you how to use the amazing abilities you already have.
